Project

Be A Part of History!

As we celebrate the town's bicentennial, we are also going through a historic event ourselves - the global pandemic of COVID-19. This event has surely altered many of our lives and the potential impact of this virus may have lasting economic, health and social implications for years to come.

The town of Glenville wants to document this time in our history for our future generations and is already thinking of 2070 - the town's 250th celebration. How will residents of Glenville look back on us? What will they say of this time? You can help shape that!

The town is sponsoring a creative writing project for all residents, but particularly our children. Take time to write an essay, paint a picture, compose a song, write a poem or compose a letter to the residents of 2070...whatever you want to express your thoughts about the bicentennial and the pandemic. Let the residents of 50 years into the future know what life was like for you and for our community. These creative expressions will be collected and placed in a time capsule to be opened in 2070. You can shape our story. Some potential topics for inspiration are:

- How Has the COVID-19 Impacted Your Daily Life?
- What Does Your Community Today Mean to You?
- What Do You Think Life in 2070 Will Look Like? What Changes Do You See? What Does the Future Hold?
  - What Is Life Like Today in Glenville?
  - Why is Community So Important to You?
- Make it Your Own: Write About What You Want the People of 2070 to Know About You or the Community.

Send your essay, song, poem, letter or artwork to Glenville Town Hall, Attn: Glenville 2070 Project, 18 Glenridge Rd, Glenville, NY 12302 or via email to glenville2020@gmail.com. You can also drop it off at Town Hall as soon as we're open again. Direct all questions to the email above or call 518.688.1202.
